

Towngas China Group receives Eco-Friendly Showcase Award at The 7th China Charity Festival

(2 February 2018) The 7th China Charity Festival took place in Beijing on 29 January. At the event, the Towngas China Group was presented with The 7th Eco-Friendly Showcase Award for its excellent corporate social responsibility performance, thereby recognising the Group's commitment to environmental protection and support for sustainable development.

Isaac Yeung Chung-kwan, General Manager – Corporate Affairs of The Hong Kong and China Gas Company Limited and Senior Vice President of Towngas China Company Limited accepted the award on behalf of the company. He shared with the guests the Group's efforts in promoting environmental protection, community work and giving back to society as a responsible corporate citizen. At this influential annual gathering, the Towngas China Group demonstrated its implementation and experience in the arena of charity work as a visionary corporation that is heavily committed to its social responsibility, while communicating its dedication to keep on improving and doing good.

Established in 2011, The China Charity Festival is the first of its kind that is launched by the public media. As a highly influential annual event, the current edition not only attracted the attention of over 100 members of the media, but also saw over a thousand representatives from the government, charity organisations, corporations, academic institutions and other fields attending. Through speeches, discussions and sharing sessions, attendees exchanged their views and experience on important topics such as corporate social responsibility, environmental protection and efficient poverty alleviation.
